Jessica Lang, a 2014 New York Dance and Performance “Bessie” Award and 2017 Arison Award recipient, makes her choreographic debut on the Ailey company with the world premiere EN, her 100th ballet. EN – whose multiple meanings in Japanese signify circle, destiny, fate and karma – is a celebratory ensemble work set to original music by composer Jakub Ciupinski, with costumes by Bradon McDonald. According to Lang, the work “reflects on the universal experience of coming full circle and, as time passes, we recognize the people we meet along life’s journey who play a part in the fate and destiny of our lives.” Artistic Director of Jessica Lang Dance since 2011, Lang has created original works for major companies around the world like American Ballet Theatre, Pacific Northwest Ballet, Birmingham Royal Ballet, Joffrey Ballet and National Ballet of Japan. Lang’s choreography has demonstrated a breathtaking range of influences, including interests in visual art, theatrical lyricism, the geometry of the human body, and the nuances of bodily gesture.

Jessica Lang

Jessica Lang is an American choreographer originally from Bucks County, PA. As one of the most celebrated choreographers of her generation, Lang choreographs and teaches throughout the world. Since 1999 Lang has created original works for companies including American Ballet Theatre, Pacific Northwest Ballet, Birmingham Royal Ballet, the National Ballet of Japan and Joffrey Ballet, among many others. For Opera Lang was the director and choreographer of Stabat Mater, recently presented by White Lights Festival at Lincoln Center, as well as the choreographer for Francesca Zambello’s production Aida for San Francisco Opera, Washington National Opera and Seattle Opera. She is the recipient of a 2014 Bessie Award and the 2017 Arison Award. Lang is Artistic Director of Jessica Lang Dance, leading the creative vision of the organization that has garnered remarkable acclaim since the company’s founding in 2011. Lang is a graduate of the Juilliard School under the direction of Benjamin Harkarvy and a former member of Twyla Tharp’s company, THARP! Lang is married to Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater’s Kanji Segawa, who is serving as Assistant to the Choreographer for the creation of EN.
