The dancer

Yumiko Leake is a modern dancer with Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater (New York). In 2012, she moved to New York City after living in London for 15 years.

New York is a city of opportunities. People come here from all over the world to achieve their dreams, and embrace the diversity that creates the sense of constant cultural exchange.

FRIDAY NIGHT

When you step into a theater, you enter a new world, filled with actors and stories. tickets are sold, and people line up to see the show. The Joyce Theater is a perfect example of this. It's a small stage, but it's cozy and intimate. People are there to see a performance, to be moved, to be entertained.

SATURDAY AFTERNOON

It's time to relax. Head to Central Park's Sheep Meadow, a large, green space with benches and shade. Grab some food and enjoy the grass beneath you feet. You can also visit the American Museum of Natural History, which is home to many remarkable exhibits.

SATURDAY EVENING

Dine in style, and people. Head to a restaurant that serves Asian food. It's a good choice for a meal. The Red House (redhousenyc.com) is a favorite among locals. You can also visit the American Museum of Natural History.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON

It's time to relax. Head to Central Park's Sheep Meadow, a large, green space with benches and shade. Grab some food and enjoy the grass beneath you feet. You can also visit the American Museum of Natural History, which is home to many remarkable exhibits.

SUNDAY EVENING

Head to a restaurant that serves Asian food. The Red House (redhousenyc.com) is a favorite among locals. You can also visit the American Museum of Natural History.

By: Orla Thomas

February 2020 Issue